

Before sermon: Redeemed people...SING THE WORD (January - Jonah 2:8-9)

It's time. It's been nineteen years. This morning we're returning to a series of messages I preached at WBC in 2006, a series that produced more feedback than any series I've preached before or since. To prepare ourselves, let's read the Scriptures.

Scripture Reading: James 4:1-10

You're awakened from a sound asleep at night. You try to gain your senses and discover the cause. Your dog is whining indicating she wants out. You glance at the clock and notice it says 3:30 a.m. You lay there just hoping either the dog stops whining OR your spouse takes care of the problem because you don't want to get up.

One afternoon someone offers a piece of constructive criticism to you. Nothing major, just a suggestion on how you could change the way you do a particular ministry that would make it better for the entire ministry team. You know the suggestion has merit, but your initial reaction is to be defensive, to give reasons why what you've been doing is just fine.

One morning at 7:00 a.m. your teenage daughter asks you for your help. “Would you scrape the frost off my car windows, dad, so I can see to drive to school.” Prior to her request, you'd already been thinking about the fact that your schedule that day is packed, so your initial thought is, “I've got better things to do with my time than scrape your windows.” And you justify that thought with a follow-up thought, “Plus, if I do it for you, you'll never learn the valuable lesson about scraping frost off windows.”

You're driving down the road heading for an important meeting. You're supposed to be there at 1:00, but as you glance at your watch, you're wondering if you're going to make it on time. The reason is right in front of you. There's a car in your way and it's going 45 mph in a 55 mph zone. You see a double yellow line that means you're not going to be passing this sight-seer in the near future. You find yourself squeezing the steering wheel and mumbling, “What's this guy think he's doing? Doesn't he realize I need him to get out of my way on my road?!”

Can you relate to any of the above scenarios? I must confess that these are not hypothetical situations. Those are true situations, and the reason I know they're true is because the subject in each is me.

There's a common thread in each scenario. Do you know what it is? What is it that causes a man to think that his sleep is more important than his wife's, that his time is more valuable than his daughter's, that his ideas are so important that he resists constructive criticism, and that his car has more right to be on the road than somebody else's? It's one very simple, very common, very often excused, and yet very destructive entity. It's called pride.

^{}Note: This is an unedited manuscript of a message preached at Wheelersburg Baptist Church. It is provided to prompt your continued reflection on the practical truths of the Word of God.

² For a previous development of this important topic, please see the series at WBC in 2006.

³ I want to acknowledge sources that have been helpful in preparing this sermon, to God's glory. I don't even recall all of them as this has been a twenty-year process. To the best of my ability, I try to identify the source of a quote or outline that I use, but I acknowledge there may be times when I fail to recall and thus recognize the source. I am grateful that all things are from Him, through Him, and to Him (Romans 11:36).

Who struggles with pride? To be honest, for the first half of my pastoral ministry, I didn't think much about that question. When I thought about pride, I thought about the pro-athlete who complains that his 30 million dollar a year salary doesn't do justice to his talent. "That guy struggles with pride," I'd find myself thinking.

Then in August of 2006 (I believe) I was asked to teach at a seminar in the Cincinnati area. During a free hour I attended a session taught by Brad Bigne, a pastor in Florence, KY. The subject intrigued me, "Practical Steps for Killing Pride and Putting on Humility." I went thinking, "Maybe I'll pick up some ideas that I can use to... help other people." But God opened my eyes to a sobering reality. I struggle with the sin of pride. But pride is so subtle that I'd been missing it because I had such a narrow view of it. It's not just the braggart who struggles with pride—bragging is just one manifestation of pride. Pride rears its ugly head all the time, but I'd failed to recognize it and in fact often excused it by redefining it.

Then I read two small books that God used to open my eyes further:

From Pride to Humility, by Stuart Scott

Humility: True Greatness, by C. J. Mahaney

As I began to see what God's Word actually says about pride, I began to realize how dangerous this foe is. I also began to understand how most, if not all of our other problems—marriage problems, parenting problems, workplace problems, and so on—have at their root this fundamental problem, PRIDE.

C. J. Mahaney caught my attention on his very first page, "So let me make this clear at the outset: I'm a proud man pursuing humility by the grace of God. I don't write as an authority on humility; I write as a fellow pilgrim walking with you on the path set for us by our humble Savior."⁴

Why that statement gripped me so was because in the preface to the book I learned this about Mahaney. After 27 years of serving as senior pastor of a church, Mahaney, at the age of 51 and in the prime of his life and ministry, passed that role to a 30 year old young man that he had mentored and trained. Now do see why Mahaney's admission shocked me? If he says HE is a proud man pursuing humility, I knew I needed to take a closer look at what pride and humility really are.

And so I did. And that was a humbling experience. And a good one, too. It led to what happened for us as a church in 2006 when we worked on this pursuit together through a six-part sermon series, as well as by reading CJ's book as a church, which resulted eventually in making the pursuit of humility a core value at WBC.

Beloved, I want to make a bold statement and then support it biblically. It's as true today as it was when I made it nearly twenty years ago. Pride is our greatest enemy.

"Can you support that?" you ask. I believe so by using one verse. In fact, the content of this one verse appears in three different places in the Bible (first in Proverbs 3:34 which is quoted in the New Testament in both 1 Peter 5:5 and in James 4:6). Here's the statement: "God opposes the proud but gives grace to the humble."⁵

[Sing this verse together...]

According to that one biblical statement I can be guaranteed that three things are true if I am proud. In today's study we'll identify these three guarantees regarding pride and then search the rest of God's Word to develop them. Next week we'll begin to focus on humility, what it looks like and how to cultivate it.

⁴ C. J. Mahaney, Humility, p. 13.

⁵ Throughout this message I'll be using the NIV 1984 in most quotations.

I. Guarantee #1: If I am proud, God is against me.

Look closely at the first part of our statement: "God opposes the proud." The Greek verb for "oppose" is antitassomai. It means: "to be hostile toward, to battle against, to set oneself against, to resist." It appears in Acts 18:6 which states, "But when the Jews opposed Paul and became abusive, he shook out his clothes in protest..." We see the same word in James 5:6, "You have condemned and murdered innocent men, who were not opposing you."

It's bad to have people oppose you, no doubt, but know this. If I am proud, God opposes me. God resists, battles, sets Himself against the proud. Pride is no trifling matter, my friend. Feel the weight of the following texts.

-Proverbs 6:16-17 "There are six things the LORD hates, seven that are detestable to him: haughty eyes, a lying tongue, hands that shed innocent blood..."

-Proverbs 8:13 I hate pride and arrogance, evil behavior and perverse speech.

-Proverbs 16:5 The LORD detests all the proud of heart. Be sure of this: They will not go unpunished.

God hates pride. In fact, the last verse indicates He detests even the proud of heart, those who hide pride in their hearts that no one else can even see.

You may wonder, "What is it about pride that makes it so offensive to God?" The Bible answers that question for us quite clearly. It also shows that if we're going to deal with our pride, we must understand it from two perspectives.

A. Understand the root of pride. What is pride? The Greek word is huperephanos which means, "to show yourself above others," "with an overweening estimate of one's means or merits, despising others or even treating them with contempt, haughty" (Strongs).

That's what Satan did in the beginning. He wasn't satisfied with his created status as an angel. He wanted to show himself above others, above the other angels, above God Himself (Isa. 14:12-14). That's how pride entered the universe.

What's the root of pride for us? Jesus identified the root cause in Mark 7:21-22, saying, "From within, out of men's hearts come... greed, malice, deceit, lewdness, envy, slander, arrogance [it's the same Greek word translated "proud" in James 4:6, huperephanos] and folly."

Pride is rooted in the human heart from birth. It's true. Human beings enter this world with an inherited pride problem. It started with Adam and Eve who placed their will above God's and violated His command. Consequently, we too enter this world with hearts that are self-oriented and self-absorbed.

Paul describes the characteristics of depraved mankind in this way in Romans 1:30, "...slanderers, God-haters, insolent, arrogant and boastful; they invent ways of doing evil; they disobey their parents..." Note the three terms that go together here. Humans are insolent [Greek hubristas, violent; it's what Paul says he was prior to conversion in 1 Timothy 1:13, a "violent man"], arrogant [Greek word huperephanos], and boastful [from Greek aladzon]. These three traits present different facets of the one basic, root problem called pride. Here's the bottom line. This is the core problem.

1. God created me to love Him and others.

2. When I am proud, I focus on myself.

Remember, this is God's world. He is the Creator, and we are His creatures. R. C. Sproul said it well, "The grand difference between a human being and a supreme being is precisely this. Apart from God I cannot exist. Apart from me God does exist."

But when I am proud, I ignore my creature status. I act like this is my universe. It's my road, my time, my sleep that matters. My...my...my.

"Pride seeks to ungod God," said Thomas Watson. That's a good way to think of pride. I am basically taking God's place. I am seeking to ungod God.

C. J. Mahaney observes, "Pride takes innumerable forms but has only one end: self-glorification." Pride is self-oriented. Pride does not think about God and others, but solely self.

I've found this statement by the Puritan Charles Bridges to be so helpful in my battle with pride. Bridges says, "Pride lifts up one's heart against God and contends for supremacy with Him."⁶ That's what I'm doing when I get upset with my circumstances. I am contending for supremacy with the One who orchestrated my circumstances.

If we're going to deal with pride, here's where we must start. We must understand the root of pride. It's a heart problem, a self-focused orientation we possess from birth. Then we move to a second perspective.

B. Understand the fruit of pride. Pride begins in the heart, but it doesn't stay there. It manifests itself. How? Some ways are obvious. "I am the greatest!" boasted Mohamed Ali. In the following passage Paul identifies pride as a key mark of the end times. We read in 2 Timothy 3:2, "People will be lovers of themselves [lit. "self-lovers," Greek philautoi], lovers of money [lit. "silver-lovers," Greek philarguroi], boastful [from Greek aladzōn], proud [Greek word huperephanos], abusive, disobedient to their parents, ungrateful, unholy..."

Again, some manifestations of pride are easy to spot. The words "boastful" and "arrogant" identify two rather noticeable exhibitions of pride. But some are not so obvious and quite frankly, they're often excused. But if I am proud, no matter what the manifestation of it, I have God against me for God opposes the proud.

Let's identify some not so obvious fruits of pride. It's not easy to do for pride is blinding. "This fact is why it is often difficult to see pride in ourselves, and yet so easy to see it in others," observes Stuart Scott in his helpful booklet From Pride to Humility. Dr. Scott offers a helpful checklist to help us spot our pride. From that list I've developed the following ten indicators. I am proud when I...

1. Fail to be grateful.

"This food stinks," says Johnny to his mother. "Why do I have to eat it?" A proud person, instead of being grateful, thinks he deserves better in life than what he has. That goes not only for food, but for cars, jobs, houses, and more.

The complaint, "My company doesn't appreciate me," may be true but they may also be an indication of the pride notion, "I deserve a company that appreciates me." Proud people tend to be critical, complaining, and discontented.

Listen to this sobering commentary about Hezekiah in 2 Chronicles 32:25 (ESV), "But Hezekiah did not make return according to the benefit done to him, for his heart was proud. Therefore wrath came upon him and Judah and Jerusalem."

2. Look down on others and show little tolerance for differences.

Remember the Pharisee who criticized Jesus in Luke 7? He got upset because Jesus allowed a woman with a sinful past to wash, kiss, and perfume His feet. He had a pride problem. He wrongly assumed that he deserved to be near Jesus, and this woman didn't deserve the privilege.

Proud people look down on those who dress differently. They feel inward disgust when in the presence of someone from a different background. They have little tolerance for differences. How do you respond when you see a young person with dyed purple hair and a tongue ring? Whether he should have those isn't the issue right now (the purple hair and tongue ring could well be indications that this young person has a proud heart, that he wants attention). But if I look down on him, I have the same heart problem, pride.

3. See myself as being indispensable.

Proud people often have a distorted view of themselves. "This ministry would fall apart if I wasn't around." Probably not. But regardless, we would do well to read 1 Corinthians 4:7 often, "What do you have that you did not receive? And if you did receive it, why do you boast as though you did not?"

4. Focus on my abilities OR on my lack of them

"Oh, I'm no good at that game. Just go ahead and play without me. I can't contribute." That may sound like a humble response at first, but it could actually be pride. Some proud people are always down on themselves. Their focus is on self. They rightly confess that they can't do something but in their heart they wish they could and they wish they could have the recognition that would come from it. Having a "woe is me" attitude is self-pity, which is pride (see also 1 Cor. 12:14-25).

5. Have to be perfect.

Often, people who strive for perfection do so for recognition. "I can't invite a visitor from church over to my house. Why, my furniture is worn, and besides, I'm not a very good cook." But is the purpose of hospitality to make people think well of us because we have nice furniture and show-and-tell meals? No, the purpose is to demonstrate biblical love by reaching out and focusing on others (see Matt. 23:24-28).

6. Talk too much.

Proud people don't tend to be good listeners because they think that what they have to say is more important than what anyone else has to say. And so they ramble on and on as though no one else was present. Proverbs 10:19 warns, "When words are many, sin is not absent, but he who holds his tongue is wise."

7. Am consumed with what others think.

A person could be very quiet, not because they are considerate of others but because they don't want to "say something stupid" that would cause others to think poorly of them. Is that pride? Yes, once again it's a self-focused activity, in this case a self-focused non-activity.

The proud athlete is easy to spot, the one who brags and pumps his chest. But what about the proud non-athlete? That's the person who didn't even go out for the team, or who quit the team. And why? Because he didn't want to mess up and look bad. That too is pride. People-pleasing is an evidence of pride. So is making decisions based on what others think of you (see also Gal. 1:10).

8. Resist or become angry when criticized.

Proud people are defensive. Teens struggle with this. "What do you mean I'm being grouchy, Mom? You're just too sensitive!" According to Proverbs 13:1, "A wise son heeds his father's instruction, but a mocker does not listen to rebuke."

Yet proud adults struggle with this too. I remember when Pastor Darrel became our associate several years ago, and he said to me, “I welcome your criticism. If I do something that could be done in a better way, please tell me.” That’s a mark of God-honoring humility, and unfortunately it’s rare in the pastoral world. Proud people can’t bear the thought that they are not perfect and for sure don’t want anybody else pointing out growth areas, even if it is for their own good and the glory God.

9. Fail to be teachable (Prov. 19:20)

Proud people are know-it-alls. They respect no one. They need no one. They are superior. Proverbs 19:20 says, “Listen to advice and accept instruction, that you may gain wisdom in the future.”

10. *Fail to show compassion.*⁷

When Jesus saw a person in pain or need, His heart went out to that person, and He took action. A proud person won’t do that. They don’t see the needs of others, and if they do see them, they don’t do anything about it because they’re focused on their own concerns. They fail to heed Jesus’ instruction in Matthew 5:7, “Blessed are the merciful, for they shall receive mercy.” (see also Matt. 18:23-35)

So there are ten manifestations of pride, but know this. There are dozens of others (Dr. Scott lists thirty!). The fruit of pride is abundant in this sin-cursed world and in these sinful hearts of ours.

“Okay,” you say, “so there’s a lot of pride. Why are you belaboring this point?” For this reason. “God resists the proud.” That’s a guarantee. As is this.

II. Guarantee #2: If I am proud, I will not receive grace.

James 4:6 continues, “God opposes the proud but gives grace to the humble.” Note the implication. God gives grace to the humble, but not to the proud. They forfeit God’s grace. Let’s talk about three demonstrations of grace that proud people miss.

A. Pride keeps people from salvation.

Case in point, the rich young ruler in Mark 10:17-23. Remember him? He came to Jesus with a question in verse 17. “Good teacher,” he asked, “what must I do to inherit eternal life?” Notice his emphasis on doing. He wants to know what he can do to have eternal life.

Jesus told him to keep the commands of God. How did the man responded? Verse 20 says, “Teacher, all these I have kept since I was a boy.” This man doesn’t see himself as a sinner. He sees himself as a pretty good guy. So Jesus told him to sell all his goods and then come and follow Him. At which point, “...the man’s face fell,” according to verse 22. “He went away sad, because he had great wealth.”

The man’s self-sufficiency kept him from Jesus. He didn’t need a Savior because he didn’t see himself as a sinner. Simply put...

1. To be saved you must admit you are helplessly lost.

2. To admit lostness is something a proud person will not do.

Hell will be full of proud people who clung to their self-righteous rags and forfeited the grace that could have been theirs (Jonah 2:9). Here’s something else that pride (and the absence of grace) produces.

B. Pride produces frustration in the Christian life.

⁷ Adapted from list in From Pride to Humility, by Stuart Scott, pages 6-10.

Have you ever said to yourself, “God, You seem so distant to me. Why do I feel like I am so far from You?” The problem could be pride. Listen to Psalm 138:6, “Though the LORD is on high, he looks upon the lowly, but the proud he knows from afar.” Isn’t that interesting? God looks upon the lowly, and is near to the humble. But He says there’s a gap between Him and the proud.

In Galatians 5 Paul identifies the works of the flesh. Consider the list in Galatians 5:19-21, “The acts of the sinful nature are obvious: sexual immorality, impurity and debauchery; idolatry and witchcraft; hatred, discord, jealousy, fits of rage, selfish ambition, dissensions, factions and envy... I warn you, as I did before, that those who live like this will not inherit the kingdom of God.”

Mixed in with what we call the “big sins” God’s Word includes selfish ambition. People with selfish ambition do not produce the fruit of the Spirit. And people who lack the Spirit’s fruit experience frustration in their walk with Christ. Again, God gives grace to the humble, but only to the humble.

C. Pride ruins families, churches, work places, and teams. God’s Word is clear about this. Proverbs 13:10 says, “Pride only breeds quarrels...” Why do family members fight? Here’s the reason at the root level. At least one party (if not several or all involved parties) has a heart filled with pride.

Let’s take another look at two texts we’ve already considered, this time noting the family implications. We read in Romans 1:30, “...slanderers, God-haters, insolent, arrogant and boastful; they invent ways of doing evil; they disobey their parents...” Do you see the connection between the phrase “insolent, arrogant, and boastful” and “they disobey their parents”?

We see something similar in 2 Timothy 3:2, “People will be lovers of themselves, lovers of money, boastful, proud, abusive, disobedient to their parents...” Why is there often so much friction between parents and teens? It’s pride. Because of pride, parents hold themselves up as the ultimate authority, saying, “Do it because I said so!” But parents aren’t the ultimate authority, just the delegated stewards in God’s plan. The children belong to God. He alone is the ultimate authority.

Furthermore, it’s because of pride that teens close their hearts to dad and mom, saying, “You don’t understand me.” Which means, “I am so unique and special that you don’t have the capacity to know me and what’s best for me,” That too is pride.

Two things happen when I am proud and both are destructive.

1. When I am proud, I think about pleasing myself.
2. When I am proud, I end up hurting you.

It’s not just families that pride destroys. Churches fragment as well. Remember the cliques in the Corinthian church? What caused them? Paul says in 1 Corinthians 4:6-7, “... Then you will not take pride in one man over against another...” But that’s precisely what the Corinthian church members had been doing, exhibiting pride by exalting in men.

C. J. Mahaney hits the nail on the head. “Pride...undermines unity and can ultimately divide a church. Show me a church where there’s division, where there’s quarreling, and I’ll show you a church where there’s pride.”⁸

This is serious. Mike Renihan remarks, “Pride ruins pastors and churches more than any other thing. It is more insidious in the church than radon in the home.”⁹

Beloved, we mustn't excuse our pride. It's a deadly foe that must be mortified. What happens if we don't deal with our pride? Proverbs 16:18 says, "Pride goes before destruction, a haughty spirit before a fall."

Some of you have seen the destructive effects of pride at your workplaces. Why is it so common to see management and labor at odds with each other? Why won't they talk with each other and work out solutions that are in the best interest of everyone? It often boils down to pride. "I'm right. You're wrong. That's the end of the discussion."

If I am proud, God is against me, that's guarantee #1. If I am proud, I will not receive grace, that guarantee #2. This brings us to the third guarantee in our text.

III. Guarantee #3: If I am proud, I need to humble myself.

James 4:6 again, "God opposes the proud but gives grace to the humble." What's the solution to pride? It's right here. We need to humble ourselves. We'll talk about how to do that in greater detail next week, the Lord willing. But for now, let's identify clearly what happens if we DON'T, and if we DO.

A. If I do not humble myself, God will do it for me.

Proverbs 18:12 says, "Before his downfall a man's heart is proud, but humility comes before honor." What leads to downfall? A heart that is proud does. Who brings about the downfall? The answer isn't stated in the text, but it's not hard to identify. God Himself brings down the proud. Why?

Isaiah gives the answer in Isaiah 2:11-17, "The eyes of the arrogant man will be humbled and the pride of men brought low; the LORD alone will be exalted in that day. The LORD Almighty has a day in store for all the proud and lofty...The arrogance of man will be brought low and the pride of men humbled; the LORD alone will be exalted in that day..."

God hates pride. It's an affront to Him for this is His world. Jesus made the point very clear that there's no room for pride in His followers. He says in Matthew 23:11-12, "The greatest among you will be your servant. For whoever exalts himself will be humbled, and whoever humbles himself will be exalted." [also in Luke 14:11]

Beloved, pride will go. It's just a matter of time. If I do not humble myself, God will do it for me. Maybe in this life, but for sure at the judgment. On the other hand...

B. If I humble myself, God promises to help me.

Hear again the words of His promise, "...He gives grace to the humble." Grace—unmerited favor and help. He gives—it's not merited but His gracious gift. To the humble—we'll explore the fuller meaning of the Greek word tapeinos next time, but in its basic sense it means "to be low."

Let that sink in. To be low. Simply put, this is the promise. God helps those who are low, who heartily admit to themselves, to others, and most importantly to God that they need help. Yes, they admit they cannot help themselves, but need help beyond themselves.

Is this easy to do? Is it easy to get rid of pride? My friend, if you choose to get serious about dealing with your pride, know this. You are in for a battle! The Puritan Richard Baxter explains:

"Pride is a deep-rooted and a self-preserving sin; and therefore is harder to be killed and rooted up than other sins. It hinders the discovery of itself...It will not allow the sinner to see his pride when he is reproved; neither will it allow him to confess it if he sees it; nor...to loathe himself and forsake it...Even when he recognizes all of the evidences of pride in others, he will not see it in himself...If you would go about to cure him of this or any other fault, you shall feel that you are handling a wasp or an adder; yet when he is spitting the venom of pride against the reprovor, he does not perceive that he is proud; this venom is a part of his nature and therefore is not felt as harmful or poisonous..."

Baxter wrote those words in the 1600's but he's describing the plight of the 21st century man, woman, and child, isn't he?

"If pride is such a vicious enemy, is there hope?" you ask. Yes, indeed! Peter gives us the battle strategy for dealing with pride in 1 Peter 5:6-7, "Humble yourselves, therefore, under God's mighty hand, that he may lift you up in due time. Cast all your anxiety on him because he cares for you."

If you want to defeat pride, you must do what a proud man will never do. And that is to admit your absolute dependence upon God Himself! You need God to do for you what you cannot do. Humble yourself under His hand. Cast your care upon Him believing His promise that He cares for you.

This is why He sent His Son into the world, to do for you and me what we cannot do for ourselves. It's also why Jesus died, to pay the penalty for the sin of our pride and of every other sin too. And it's why Jesus conquered the grave, to set us free from our pride and every other sin so that we can now live for the glory of God and the good of others.

We'll learn more about the pursuit of humility next time, but we don't need to wait to put the solution into practice. It begins right here.

The Bottom Line: If we want to defeat pride, we must look to the cross. Today, and every day until we see Him.

*When I survey the wondrous cross
On which the Prince of glory died,
My richest gain I count but loss,
And pour contempt on all my pride.*

--Isaac Watts--

Closing Song: #185 "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross" (all four verses)

Community Group Discussion:

1. This morning we began a new series, Killing Pride, Cultivating Humility. What is pride? What did you learn about pride from this message that stood out most to you?
2. What does God say about pride in His Word? Take time to find and read several passages that express God's assessment of pride.
3. Take another look at the ten pride indicators we discussed. Which stands out most to you? Can you think of other pride indicators?
4. According to the Puritan Thomas Watson, "Pride seeks to ungod God." What does Watson mean? Think of an example of this from your own life this past week (and if you can't think of one, that may be the example 😊).
5. What are some consequences of pride? Think of a personal example where pride produced consequences in your own life. What were the consequences?
6. It is easier to talk about the problem of pride than deal with it. What is the solution for pride, and how practically do we implement the solution?
